Theſauri dedicatione, epiſtola.

CVM ſuperioribus annis (illuſtriſſime vir) in ſubſidium ſtudioſæ iuuentutis Eliota Dictionarium Latinoanglicum maximis laboribus conficeret: mihi viſus eſt vir doctus & prudens mente cogitationeq; proſpexiſſe, in quantas anguſtias ętate ſubſequente res literaria prolapſura videretur. Poſtquam enim noſtra memoria, propter graues temporum & religionis mutationes, antiſtites Eccleſiæ verbiq; miniſtri, non in contemptum modò hominum, ſed in periculum etiam ſalutis & fortunarum trahi cœperunt: mirū profectò quam ex eo tempore quotidie magis deiecta ſit iuuentutis ſpes et induſtria, quam vbiq; contemptæ iacuerint artes & diſciplinæ. Nam cum illud vitæ genus, cuius antea dignitas et amplitudo quaſi pręmium ſtudioſorum laboribus propoſitum fuit, iam vel, quod multi putant, coniunctam habeat ignominiam, vel, quod impii ſperant, imminentem calamitatem: et parentes, ſuorum proſpicientes commodis, alia vitæ inſtituta liberis pręſcribunt: et ipſi iuuenes, vulgi potius exiſtimationem quam rerū dignitatem ſequentes, ad quiduis ſunt promptiores, quam ad diuturnas ſtudiorum moleſtias ſine certo fructu perferendas. Hinc itaq; fit, quod à præclaris ingeniis præmaturè deſtituantur Academiæ et ſcholæ publicæ, multoſq; iuuenes habeant liberaliter ſanè inſtitutos educatione doctrinaq; puerili, ſed paucos admodum, qui cognitionis et ſcientiæ cupidi, in literas illas interiores et reconditas altius penetrare ſtudeant: niſi qui fortè ad medicinæ cognitionem, aut iuriſprudentiam paulo maiori impetu ferantur. Reliqui, vel abiectis ſtudiis ad aulicam vitam confugiunt, vel ad regni inſtituta ediſcenda ſe conferunt, vel ad alias ætatis degendæ rationes deſciſcunt, ex quibus ampliores credunt vtilitates ſibi profecturas. Quamobrem meritò mihi videntur conqueri Chriſtianæ religionis præſides et viri doctiſſimi, quibus eiuſdem hodie tradita eſt adminiſtratio, cum incredibili veritatis Euangelicæ incommodo magnam eſſe in pleriſq; locis eccleſiarū deſtitutionem, ſummamq; penuriam eorum, qui diuini fœderis præconium ſuſcipiant, qui Eccleſiaſtica munia ſubeant, qui reliquas literatæ pietatis functiones exerceant. Cum enim cæteras reipublicæ partes capeſcentibus certi honores magnaq; præmia proponātur, Eccleſiarum verò rectoribus & literarum magiſtris ad contemptum maior q̄ ad laudem locus relictus ſit: non mirum ſi multi reperiantur, qui gloriam & dignitatem, pauci qui coniunctam cum ignominia virtutem et doctrinam perſequantur. Sed imprudenter à me & intempeſtiuè hæc illata videtur querela, cum omnium iam ſermone peruulgatum ſit, tuo maximè conſilio, & clariſſimi viri Sicilli maieſtatem Regiam iamdudum iniiſſe rationem, quemadmodum non artes ſolum iniuria temporis labātes in priſtinam reſtituantur dignitatem, ſed etiam vt iuuentus ignauia langueſcens gloriæ ſtimulis erecta magis conſtanter perferat graues ſtudiorum labores. Hanc opinionem mentibus hominum infixit anno ſuperiore Cantabrigienſis profectio: cū Regia maieſtas in ipſis quaſi Muſarū delubris, non ſolū præſentia ſua declarauit honeſtiſſimarum artium cultores ſibi et curæ fuiſſe & delectationi, ſed etiam ſplendida & illuſtri oratione ſtudioſorum animos ad ſingularem quandam ſpem ampliſſimorum virtutis & induſtriæ præmiorum concitabat. Verè quidem illa principis officio fungitur & illuſtris et immortali prædicatione dignæ. Poſtquã enim ſtrepitus armorum et bellorum tumultus prudentiſſimis conſiliis ſedauit, ad pacis rationes componendas incumbit: vt linguarum peritia vigeat, vt humanitatis diſciplinæ floreant, vt laudabilium artium doctrina in pretio ſit, ſummo ſtudio contendit. Qua in re licet ipſius præcipuè virtus & prudentia eluceat, veſtra tamen non exigua laus eſt, qui in eiuſdem ſocietatem cōſilii veniſtis. Veſtris enim monitis, veſtris hortatibus, et excitata eſt et cōfirmata Regiæ Celſitudinis induſtria. Quamobrem diuino certè beneficio factum puto, vt his temporibus Academiæ noſtrates, præclaræ Muſarum ſedes, vos inprimis duos habeant patronos: quos omnes vident, & ſingulari quadam naturæ bonitate, & incredibili Reipublicæ ſtudio liberalium diſciplinarum ſuſcepiſſe defenſionem & propagationem. Satis enim intelligit veſtra prudentia, nihil eſſe in natura rerum, quod tam fuſa in omnes partes habeat commoda, quam humanitas atque doctrina. Nam præclara hæc et eximia communiū literarum eſt vtilitas, quod earū conformatio, ſi vel ad mediocres naturas acceſſerit, incredibilem vim prudentiæ, conſilii, dignitatis, ad omnes Reipublicæ partes cōſtituendas profert. Quis enim nō videt, quantum poſſit humanitatis et diſciplinæ inſtitutio, in vero numinis cultu promouendo, in religione confirmanda, in moribus erudiendis, in obeundis legationibus, in exponendis Principis Senatúſue mandatis, in ſuaſione aut diſſuaſione legum, conſiliorum tractatione, cauſis publicis, iudiciis, cæteriſq; rebus omnibus, quibus adminiſtratio Reipublicæ cōtinetur? Labantibus igitur literarū ſtudiis, et maximè reipublicæ vtilitates ſimul cōcidunt. Pro cognitione et ſcientia, turpiſſima rerum omnium ignoratio: pro ſincero dei cultu, anilis ſuperſtitio: pro dicendi facultate, ſtupida infantia: pro conſilii copia et vbertate, mentis et iudicii inopia: pro exculta morum elegantia, agreſtis et inamœna ruſticitas: pro manſuetudine et humanitate, barbara quædam feritas in vitam hominum inuadit. Quamobrem (vir præclariſſime) quod liberaliſſimarum artium te patronum et defenſorem præbeas, quod ad eorum conſilia te adiunxeris, qui de ſuſcitāda literarum dignitate cogitant, et Reipublicæ maximam cōcilias vtilitatem, et immortalem tibi laudem nominiſq; prædicationem. Huius enim facti grata erit in omnem poſteritatem recordatio. Præclara quidē ſemper habita ſunt iſta in ſplendidis et illuſtribus viris, vt ſua virtute et induſtria iuris et legum æquabilitatem ſeruent, ciues in officio contineant, ſeditioſos pacis perturbatores reprimant, ab externis bellis patriam defendant: ſed vulgares hæ nobilium virorum laudes ſunt, et cum multis communes. Iſta verò eximia ſunt et ſingularia, ſummo ſtudio curare, vt procul à regni finibus extermin etur infantia: vt longius amandetur fœda rerum ignoratio: vt ſuum locum virtus et ingenii gloria conſequatur: vt, qui ſtudiis et artibus honos debetur, ſtudiis et artibus honos deferatur. Verùm vt pauci ſunt, qui harum rerum gloriam expetunt: ita qui diuinitus excitati in eam rem incumbunt, ab omnibus maiori et honore, et admiratione digni exiſtimantur. Sed hæc cura non claros modò viros, et eos qui cum dignitate ſunt in Republica debet attingere, ſed omnes præterea bonos ciues, et inprimis eos, qui literarum cauſa cupiunt. Quorum è numero cū ego me profitear eſſe: cum officio meo coniunctum arbitror, vt aliquid in communem ſtudioſorum fructum proferā. Omnes itaq; ingenii mei facultates, cuiuſquemodi ſunt, in hunc vtriuſq; linguæ Theſaurum contuli: vt, qui in re literaria tenuiores ſunt, hinc petant, quo ſuam poſſint inopiam ſuſtentare, donec per ſe maiores orationis diuitias ſibi comparent. Cæteras artes et ſcientias alii ſuo tempore promouebunt, ego pro virili mea parte ſtudui, vt hac ratione iuuenibus noſtris aliquantò facilior eſſet aditus ad Latinæ linguæ cognitionem atq; facultatem. Hic enim non ſolum cuiuſq; vocabuli vernacuvernaculam interpretationem variam et copioſam reperient: ſed etiam ex ampliſſimo Roberti Stephani Theſauro commodiſſimè congeſtas locutionum formulas, quibus eiuſdem apud probatos authores vſus, quantumuis multiplex, indicatur. Ex eiſdem etiam ſubſcriptis locutionum exemplis intelligant, cuiuſmodi in illuſtribus ſcriptoribus adiuncta ſint nominibus epitheta, quæ verbis eleganter aduerbia connectantur, quæ interdum antitheta et contraria, quæ nomina quibus verbis, quæ item verba quibus nominibus aptè cohęreant. Genera verborum et nominum, inflectionem, accentum, deriuationem, nuſq̃ penè prætermiſi: vt illorum etiam conſulerem induſtriæ, quibus deeſt viuæ vocis inſtitutio. Aſcripta ſunt vbiq; authorum nomina: vt non obſcurum eſſe poſſit, quid cuiq; debeatur. Hinc etiam vel exiguo negotio depromant ſibi non contemnendum apparatum verborum et locutionum, ſiue de re aliqua dicendum ſit, ſiue ſcribendum. Accedunt et iſta non exigua commoda: quod hic Latini ſermonis elegantiam et concinnitatem obſeruent, quod eiuſdem cum noſtro idiomate conſenſionem intelligant, quod in ſuis ſcriptis ad optimorũ authorũ imitationẽ ſe facilius componant. Quamobrem hic vnus liber omnia videtur adferre ſubſidia & adiumenta, quibus iuuenes inſtructi laudabilem orationis facultatem conſequantur. Hoc quicquid eſt laboris et induſtriæ, quod in Theſauro noſtro congerendo locaui, tibi inprimis (vir ornatiſſime) dicandum arbitror. Oxonienſes enim, ſi quid in literis hoc tempore moliuntur operoſius, ſi quid in lucem proferendum ſtatuunt, id cenſent tuæ Dignitati tum iure, tum merito deberi. Si enim qui fundum ſtudioſè colendum, diligenter conſerendum, eleganter exornandum curat, eiuſdem prouentus iure ſibi vendicat: æquum etiam videri debet, vt quos ſtudiorum fructus Oxonienſis Academia profert, eos tibi ſolus auferas, qui tam libenter eam & ſtudio foues, & conſilio regis, & authoritate defendis. Cum igitur ego ſemper alumnus huius ſcholæ fuerim: non video quemadmodum ſine iuſta ingratitudinis reprehenſione poſſim non tibi labores meos conſecrare. Quod tamen non ea ſpe facio, vt mea dicatione ad tuas quicquam laudes accedat. Quid enim ad ſolis ſplendorem lucernæ lichnioliue lumen, aut ad immenſam maris magnitudinem quid poteſt adferre ſtilla muriæ? Ad cumulum vero laudum tuarum cumulum, quem præclariſſimarum virtutum ornamentis tibi comparaſti, multo minus hac inſcriptione additur. Me tamen nominis tui ſplendore ad huius lucubrationis obſcuritatem illuſtrandam abuti, non grauiter, vt ſpero, patiere. Nam & ea es humanitate, vt oblata munuſcula non tam ſuo pondere, quàm offerentium voluntate metiaris: & ea grauitate atq; conſtantia, vt quarum modo literarum tutelam ſuſceperis, earum iam nolis fructus quantumuis exiguos aſpernari. Hunc itaq; Theſaurum literarium tibi exhibeo teſtem & animi in te mei, & omniũ tuorum Oxonienſium voluntatis. Quem ſi pro ſolita benignitate tua in bonam acceperis partem, diuitiarum certè tuarum cumulo non multum, humanitatis commendationi plurimum acceſſerit.

Vale.

ANNOTATIONES QVIBVS ſtudioſi lectores admonentur de ratione & ordine iſtius libri, ne fortè in quærendis dictionibus vel errent vel hæſitent.

ORdinem alphabeticum diligenter in omnibus ſeruaui, præterq̃ in illis vocabulis quæ ab alijs deducuntur. Nam, quæ Grammatici vocant deriuatiua, reieci ad ſuos fontes, vnde promanant et profluunt. Vt iſtæ dictiones Eſurio, Eſuriens, Eſuries, Eſuritio, &c. non habentur in alphabetica ſerie, ſed poſt verbum Edo, à quo deriuantur. Quam rationem ideo putaui vtiliorem fore, quod facile iuuenis cognoſcat, vtrum dictio, de qua dubitatur, primogenia ſit, an deductitia: & ſi deductitia, à quo tandem trahatur, & quos habeat generis conſortes. Suis tamen locis in alphabetico ordine reperies, vbi iſta, poſt ſuas origines, quęrenda ſint.

Vernaculas phraſium & locutionum interpretationes de induſtria plurimis in locis inuenies mancas & imperfectas. Vt in verbo Colligo, iſtæ locutioni, Colligare impetum furentis, adieci interpretationis cauſa tantummodo, to repreſſe, ⁊c. reliquam partem ſententiæ reliqui induſtriæ lectoris. Item, in Circulus, iſta ſententia, Circulos ſuos orbeſq; conficiunt celeritate mirabili ſtellæ, hanc imperfectam habet adiunctam expoſitionem: To theyr courſes with marueilous, ⁊c. Vbi vides eius duntaxat partis expoſitionem, quæ difficillima ſit, & quæ pertineat ad vocabulum, cuius vſus eo loco deſcribitur: cętera conſulto prętermiſi. Hanc rationem licet multis fortaſſe minus probatam, me tamen vel inuitum perſequi coegit ſtudium breuitatis: quam licet & hac in re, & alijs quibuſcunque potui modis ſecutus ſum, vides tamen plus iuſto voluminis magnitudinem creuiſſe.

Non defuturos ſcio, qui vernaculam interpretationem reprehendant, tanq̃ multis in locis parum commodè latinis reſpondentem. Sed ab æquis lectoribus vehementer contendo, vt iudicium ſuum differant, donec in eum locum inciderint, vnde phraſes ipſæ deſumptæ ſunt. In maternum enim ſermonem transfudi, non eo quidem ſenſu, quem prima fronte præ ſe ferre videntur Latina: ſed iuxta mentem & ſentētiam authoris, quem citaui. Exempli cauſa, in Viuus ſic legent, Viui peruenimus illuc. Virg. Statim expectabunt hanc interpretationem, We came thyther aliue. Sed ego ſenſum authoris ſecutus, ſic verti: We haue liued to ſee that. Item in Tarditas, Curſu corrigere tarditatem, hunc in modum interpretatus ſum: With more ſpeede to make amendes for his ſlowneſſe before time. At multi credent magis appoſitè me vertiſſe, ſi dixiſſem, To amende his ſlowneſſe wyth running. Quæ interpretatio longè diſcrepaſſet ab authoris ſententia. Hæc pauca ſatis fuerit exempli cauſa demonſtraſſe: cum tamen alia plurima ſint eiuſdem generis.

Omnis dictio, quæ ex claſsicis et probatis authoribus depromitur, habet authoris nomen aſcriptum. Quod ſi qua non habuerit, eam ſcito vel Græcam eſſe, nec dum in ſatis probatum vſum Latini ſermonis pertractam: vel eiuſmodi Latinam, quæ in laudatis ſcriptoribus non reperiatur.

Locutionum formulæ poſt vnumquodque vocabulum non temerè et confuſè, ſed alphabetica ſerie commodiſsimè congeſtæ ſunt, vt minori negotio ſe quęrentibus offerant.

Vbicunque repereris hanc notam aſcriptam .¶. ibi ſcito vel ſignificationem, vel vſum dictionis nonnihil diſcrepare ab eo, quod proximè ſuperius præceſſerat.

NOn inutile mihi videtur,vt,propoſitis quibuſdam exemplis, quaſi digito tyronibus demonſtrem,quem fructum poſsint ex hoc Theſauro decerpere. Quæ res ſi fortè à me tractabitur magis craſſa Minerua, q̃ vt prouectioribus & excercitatis gratum eſſe poſsit: cogitent me eorum maximè cauſa facere, qui deſtituti magiſtris viuæ vocis inſtitutionem non ſunt conſecuti. Hanc item rationem ſi illi Literarum magiſtri,qui per ſe meliorem excogitare non poſſunt,in ſuis pręlectionibus obſeruare voluerint,non inutilem meo iudicio nauabunt operam.

For ſo much as the vnſkilfull or yong learned Scholars cannot of themſelues conceyue the vſe of this booke, I haue thought it good by examples to note vnto them, what fruit & cōmodity they may take therof, in ſo plaine forme or mãner as I can deuiſe. Fyrſte therefore they may here learne, what parte of ſpeach the word is. For Nownes and Verbes may be knowen by their declining, which commonly is here noted: and the other parts are expreſſely named: as, Participles, Aduerbes, Coniunctions, &c. Next, they may ſee, what accent it ſhould haue, & howe it is to be pronounced: as, Piſcina, penul prod. not Piſcina. If it be a Nowne, they may know whether it be Adiectiue or Subſtantiue. For Adiectiues be expreſſely noted moſt commonly, and Subſtantiues may be perceyued by their Gender and Declenſon. If it be a Subſtantiue, let them marke, what Gender it is, and of what Declenſon. The Gender both is added moſt commonly, and where it is not, may be learned by the phraſes following: and the Declenſon may be gathered by the Genitiue caſe. As, Dux, is noted to be the common Gender, and the Genitiue caſe Ducis, ſheweth it to be the thyrde Declenſon. Ducatus, is noted to be the Maſculine gender, and Ducatus the Genitiue caſe declareth it to be the fourth Declenſon. Then may they further learne, whether the worde be a Primitiue, or Deriuatiue deduced of ſome other. For all the Deriuatiues are ſet with their ſignifications and phraſes, in a ſmaller Latine letter after their Primitiues. As, after this Primitiue, Duco, followeth Ducens, Ductus, Ducatus, Dux, Ductor, Ducetarius, Ductilis, Ductim. Wherby wͭ great profite they may learne, as it were, ẏ whole progenie & offspring of any word. Next, let them further marke ẏ diuers ſignificatiõs of the word, & the manifolde conſtructions and vſes of the ſame, be it Verbe, Nowne, or other. As, Certamen, ſometime ſignifieth a game, or play: as, lex Certaminis. Sometyme ſtryfe, debate, contention: as, Certamen eſt mihi cum illo. Sometyme fight or battayle: as, conſerere Certamen. This diuerſity of ſignifications I haue not only noted together confuſely in the fyrſt expoſition of the word, but afterward alſo diſtinctly each by it ſelf, with the phraſes to the ſame belonging: which he may find out by this Paragraffe ¶ which is noted whereſoeuer eyther the ſignification, or the vſe of the thing altereth. In a Verbe they haue to note, whether it be Primitiue or Deriuatiue, of what Coniugation it is, what is the Preterperfect tenſe and Supines, what diuerſitie of ſignifications, and varietie of conſtructions it hath. As, Contendo, being in the bigger ſorte of letter, is declared to be a Primitiue, and hath deduced of it theſe Deriuatiues, Contentus, Contentè, Contentio, Contentioſus, &c. The Coniugation may be knowen by the termination of the Infinitiue mode Contendere, there added. The Preterperfect tenſe, and the Supines are expreſſed as well in this worde, as all other. Contendo, ſometime ſignifieth to bende: as, Contendere arcum. Sometime to ſtretch: as, Ilia riſu contendere. Sometime to ſtrayne harde: as, Contendere vincla. Sometime to go to: as, Contendit Romam. Sometime to endeuoure: as, Contendere omnibus neruis. Sometime earneſtly to deſire: as, Omni ſtudio à te mi Brute contendo. Sometime to contende: as, Contendo de honore. Sometime to compare: as, Contendere rem aliquam cum alia. The diuerſitie of conſtruction of all other poyntes is eſpecially to be obſerued, which oftentymes chaungeth, as the ſignification altereth. As, Contendo, ſignifying to ſtretch or bende, ſometime hath an Accuſatiue caſe onely, as Contendere poplitem: ſometime an Accuſatiue with an Ablatiue: as, Ilia riſu contendere. When it ſignifieth to go, it hath ſometime an Accuſatiue alone: as, Romam contendit: ſometime an other Accuſatiue with, ad: as, Contendere curſum ad aliquem: ſometime an Accuſatiue with ad, only: as, Contendit ad patrem: ſometime an Accuſatiue with, in, or ad, and alſo an Ablatiue, as Magnis itineribus contendere in Italiam, vel ad exercitum. When it ſignifieth to endeuoure, ſometime it is vſed abſolutely, as Eniti et contendere debet: ſometime wyth an Ablatiue: as, Labore contendere: ſometime an Infinitiue mode, as Dyrrhachium petere contendit ſometime an Accuſatiue wyth, Contra, and vt, following: as, Contra grauitatem morbi contendit, vt conſequatur &c. Sometime an Accuſatiue with ad, and an Ablatiue: as, Maximis periculis ad ſummam laudem contendere: ſometime an Aduerbe, as Fruſtra contendere. When it ſignifieth to deſire, it is moſt cõmonly vſed with an Accuſatiue of the thing, and an Ablatiue with, A, or ab, of the perſõ: as, Hoc à me contendebat ſometime in ſteade of the Accuſatiue, an other Ablatiue is added with de: as, Pompeius vehementer à me contendit de reditu in gratiam: In place of which Ablatiue may be vſed ẏ Subiunctiue mode wͭ vt, as, Contendit à me vt redeam in gratiam. When it ſignifieth to ſtriue or contende, it hath ſometime an Accuſatiue wyth, aduerſum, or contra: as, Summa vi contendere aduerſum, vel contra aliquem ſometime a Datiue: as, Hyrundo contendit cygnis: ſometime an Ablatiue with, cum: as, Iure contendere cum aliquo ſometime an Accuſatiue with Inter, and an Ablatiue: as, Verbis inter ſe contendunt: ſometime an Ablatiue with de: as, De honore contendere When it ſignifieth to compare, it hath ſometime an Accuſatiue, and an Ablatiue with cum: as, Contendere rem aliquam cum alia: ſometime the Ablatiue is turned into the Datiue: as, Contendere rem aliquam alteri. And this varietie of conſtruction is not onely to be conſidered in the diuerſity of caſes, but alſo of other partes vndeclined: as, in Emineo, you haue, Eminere extra terram, Eminet ante oculos, Eminet in re aliqua, Inter omnes eminet, Eminebat ex ore crudelitas, Eminet ira in ſuos, Eminet ferrum pet coſtas, Eminet è mari globus terra. It is alſo to be noted, what Aduerbes authours do vſe with Verbes: as, Ciuiliter contendere, Inimi- ciſsime atq; infeſtiſsime contendere, Palam & vehementer contendere. Morouer the phraſes of elegancie, and eſpecially ſuch as haue any good grace of Metaphor: as, Contendere neruos ætatis & induſtriæ in re aliqua: Fores amicitiæ aperire: Fontem liberalitatis exhaurire &c. It helpeth much alſo to the apte vſe of the Latine tong to obſerue in Verbes, with what Nownes they be well vſed: and in Nownes, what Verbes and Adiectiues they haue ioyned with them. In the Verbe Creo, beſyde other you haue Aerumnas creare, to work one miſerie: Arbores creare, to bring forth trees: Carmina creata de aliquo, Verſes made vpon one: Commoditates creare alicui, to worke one ſundry commodities: Faſtidium creare, to cauſe lothſomeneſſe: Periculum creare, to procure daunger &c. In Nownes alſo, as I ſayd, it is good to conſider firſt, what Subſtantiues or Adiectiues are ioyned to them as Epithetons. In the worde Amicitia, you haue Condimentum amicitiæ, Conciliator amicitiæ, Fores amicitiæ, ſons, finis, exitus, ius, lex, ornamentum, ſimulatio, vinculum amicitiæ. Alſo theſe Adiectiues Ambitioſa, communis, pudica, grauis, excellens, infauſta, iuſta, vera, ſtabilis, ſuauis, venuſta amicitia, with many other that for breuitie I rehearſe not. Likewiſe it hath theſe Verbes, Comparare, contrahere, conſequi, conciliare, gignere, acquirere, parere amicitiam: conglutinare, coniungere, connectere, coniugare, conſtituere amicitiam: diſcindere, dirumpere, diſſociare, diſſuere amicitiam, with many moe of like ſort, which diligently to marke ſhall both greatly helpe, not onely the knowledge of the righte vſe of the Latine tong, but alſo the copious enriching of the ſame. This is not only to be done in Nownes and Verbes, but in Aduerbes, Coniunctions, and Prepoſitions. In the apt vſe whereof conſiſteth a great part of the elegancy of the Latine tong. Laſt of all, a ſtudious yong man, with ſmall paynes, by the helpe of this booke may gather to himſelfe good furniture both of wordes and approued phraſes and faſhions of ſpeaking for any thing, that he ſhall eyther write or ſpeake of, and ſo make vnto his vſe, as it were a cõmon place booke for ſuch a purpoſe. As in the matter of loue and frendſhip, if he take two or three of the chiefe wordes belonging to that purpoſe, as for example, Amicus, amo, amor, and then conſider the wordes deriued of them, and the phraſes to the ſame belonging, there is nothing pertayning to that matter, but that he ſhall be able copiouſly to vtter it. And if he adde the ſearch of ſome moe wordes of that ſignification, as Charitas, beneuolentia &c. he ſhall marueilouſly enrich that common place. To ſhewe this by the example of this matter of loue or frendeſhippe, for ſo much as it is ſomewhat copious, it would be longer, than this place requireth. I wyll declare it by a matter of ſmaller vſe & copie. In yͤ feate of ſhooting you haue theſe two chiefe inſtruments, Arcus, and Sagitta, in conſidering the phraſes of which two, you may procure this ſtore and furniture: Acer arcus, a ſtrong or quicke caſting bowe: Vaſtus arcus, a lugge, or a mighty bygge bowe: Sonans arcus, a ringing bowe: Arcus laxus, remiſſus, retentus, a bow vnbent: Arcus tentus, intentus, contentus, a bow bent: Sumere & corripere manu arcum, to take a bowe in his hande: Arcum lentare, aut curuare, to bowe a bow, as one doth in aſſaying the ſtrength of it, before it be bent: Arcum neruo temperare, to ſtring a bow: Arcum tendere, intendere, contendere, flectere, to bende a bow: Laxare, retendere, remittere arcum, to vnbende a bowe: Arcum adducere, ſinuare, lunare, to drawe a bowe: Arcu ſe exercere, to go on ſhooting, to practiſe ſhooting: Arcu telum dirigere, Dirigere arcum in aliquid, Obuertere arcum in aliquid, Tendere arcum aliquo, to laye hys hand towarde a thing to ſhoote at it: Emittere vel expellere arcu ſagittam, Neruo ſagittam impellere, to ſhoote: Petere aliquem arcu, to ſhoote at: Stringere aliquid arcu, Arcu ferire, infigere alicui ſagittam, Configere ſagitta, to hyt that he ſhooteth at: Sagitta ſtridens, an arrowe that ſingeth as hee goeth: Sagittæ leues, volucres, celeres, Arrowes ſwifte of flight: Acuere ſagittam, & aſperare ſagittam ferro vel cuſpide, to ſette an head on an arrowe: Armari ſagittis, to haue arrowes by his ſyde: Depromere & promere ſagittam, to take forth an arrowe to ſhoote: Corripere ſagittam, to take forth an arrowe quickely: Neruus per Cælum diuerberat ſagittam, the bowe deliuereth forth the arrowe: Sagittæ pendent à latere, hys arrowes are by his ſyde: Expedire alimenta arcu, with his bow to kil beaſts or foule to liue by. There is more I graũt that may be brought to this purpoſe: but by theſe and the imitation of them, any thing well neere pertayning to yͤ feate may be vttered in good Latine. This haue I here noted at the requeſt of certayne, that by their owne laboure wythout inſtruction or helpe of maiſters trauaile to attayne the knoweledge of the Latine tong: as for other that eyther be themſelfe well learned, or haue good maiſters, as they haue no great neede of thys booke, ſo haue they no neede at all of this admonition.

Temporibus noſtris taceat iam barbarus Hortus:
  Immenſas iactet nec Calepinus opes.
Fronte gerat nigro non album, Copia, cornu:
  Ceſſet Nizolius de Cicerone loqui.
Immodica careat iam tandem laude Doletus:
  Theſaurum Stephanus nec ſuper aſtra vehat.
Tu facilè es princeps, tu, tu, Ccöpere canendus
  Pręcunctis alijs: hic liber, hic labor eſt.

Eiuſdem carmen Sapphicum.

Facta non miror ſenioris æui:
Hic nouus vincit veteres labores:
Non labor tantus numeroſa pugna
  Herculis Hydra:
Non vbi traxit Stygijs ab vndis
Horridum corpus canis inquieti.
Iſte biſsenos ſuperat labores
  Herculis omnes.
Iſte ſerpentis rabiem bilinguis
Solus Alcides premit: iſte narrat
Ter trium mentes ſtabili ſororum
